

Non-Payment of Amounts Due

In the event that, in the University's judgment, a student has failed to pay tuition, room and board, fees, fines or other amounts or charges due to the University by the date due, the University may, in its discretion, refuse to permit registration for classes or for space in the residence halls, and the University may withhold transcripts and the award of the University's degree and diploma.